Post Election Statement from NCJW|LA

The National Council of Jewish Women|Los Angeles released the following statement yesterday, November 9, 2016, regarding the presidential election results:

This election brought up levels of emotions for all Americans that we have not seen in years. We must channel these feelings and "rise up" to continue our fight for the rights guaranteed in our Constitution. The National Council of Jewish Women|Los Angeles is a leader in the fight for the rights of women, children and families. We stand as allies with the LGBTQ community, African Americans, Latino/a Americans, Muslim Americans, Native Americans, Asian Americans, and all those fighting for social justice.

NCJW|LA will continue to advocate for the rights of all women to make our own health care decisions and for access to the health care we need, for the sustainability of our planet, for an end to gun violence, for the protection of our individual rights, for gender and racial equality, equity, and justice, for immigrant rights and for health care for all. We will stand up against gender-related violence and all forms of hate and intolerance. We will stand up for inclusiveness, cooperation and collaboration.

We will continue to work with our elected officials through our democratic process to create positive change for all Americans. This is our message and this is our commitment!
